

Research on the Practice of Common Prosperity under the Logic of Co-construction and Sharing

Yuanxin Liu, Zhiheng Cui

School of Marxism, Tiangong University, Tianjin Xiqing, China

Abstract

Since the 18th CPC National Congress, the process of realizing common prosperity has been accelerating, and our achievements have attracted worldwide attention. Of course, while understanding the bright future, we should also fully realize that the task of finally realizing the common prosperity of all people is still arduous. Through research and grasp the relationship of Co-Construction and sharing, explore the practice of Co-Construction and sharing, promote "everyone participation" and ensure "everyone's best efforts", consolidate the sharing foundation with Co-Construction and joint efforts, which is conducive to promoting the new journey of common prosperity and helping to realize the vision of common prosperity.

Keywords

Co-construction; Sharing; Common prosperity; Practice.

1. INTRODUCTION

Common prosperity is the common prosperity of co-construction and sharing. Common prosperity is a shared common prosperity. To achieve common prosperity, we must pool the strength of the people. We must rely on the joint creation, common enjoyment and common struggle of all the people. The pattern of common prosperity based on Co-Construction and sharing is the beautiful background of the Communist society, and the common prosperity through the common struggle of the whole people is its due meaning. In the social pattern of Co-Construction and sharing, only by grasping the relationship of Co-Construction and sharing and consolidating the foundation of prosperity with the cohesion of Co-Construction and sharing, can all people make great strides towards a new journey of common prosperity, have a beautiful and happy life, ensure the Long-Range Objectives Through the Year 2035.

2. GRASP THE RELATIONSHIP OF JOINT CONTRIBUTION AND SHARED BENEFITS AND BOOST THE PATTERN OF COMMON PROSPERITY

Labor can create wealth, bring happiness, promote the progress of human society and achieve the goal of common prosperity. Labor is essential. "Co-Construction" is a bridge connecting the great goal of common prosperity with the glorious work of the people. It requires everyone to do their best, participate in and fulfill their responsibilities, so that the government, society, enterprises and individuals can participate in social construction, and actively give play to the dominant position and initiative of the people through policy support and institutional arrangements, so as to form a strong joint force of construction, we need to form a strong synergy for development so that the source of common prosperity will flow, the country will prosper, and the pie will grow bigger and better. "Sharing" is to strive to realize that everyone is assigned to the cake, scientific distribution, each gets his place, and let the people become rich. As a way to achieve common prosperity, the importance of shared development is self-evident. Through a fair and just income distribution system, a scientific and effective public policy system and increasingly perfect social security construction, the whole people can enjoy a happy and healthy life and divide the "cake".

Co-Construction and sharing involves a wide range of contents. Only by adhering to Co-Construction and sharing in social construction can we embark on the road of prosperity. On the road of common prosperity, Co-Construction is to concentrate on development, and sharing is to share the fruits in a fair and just way. Sharing can be realized only through a solid foundation and a reliable way—co-construction. The relationship is just like the building. In order to share and strive for common prosperity, the foundation of Co-Construction is firmly laid, and the shared building can be built successfully naturally, and the final development result is common prosperity, The result of common prosperity will promote this process to a more effective virtuous circle. To form a virtuous circle of Co-Construction and sharing in order to achieve common prosperity, we should understand that only by laying a solid foundation for Co-Construction can we promote high-quality social development and create the glory of sharing; We will strengthen our confidence in Co-Construction, take the helm of Co-Construction, and ensure a higher level of development. To realize Co-Construction and sharing, on the one hand, we should adhere to the economic construction as the center. At the same time, we should ensure that people enjoy the achievements of economic and political construction, ensure the virtuous cycle of Co-Construction and sharing, closely link the achievements of social development with individual happy life, form a strong joint force of "everyone participation", ensure "everyone enjoyment" and help promote the pattern of common prosperity.

3. PROMOTE "EVERYONE'S PARTICIPATION " WHILE ENSURING "EVERYONE'S CONTRIBUTION"

To promote common prosperity through the system of joint contribution and sharing, "joint contribution" plays an irreplaceable role in realizing common prosperity for all and drawing a picture of common prosperity. As the main body of social practice, the people have created one wealth after another in material and spiritual aspects through labor. Therefore, on the road of common prosperity, everyone's efforts are essential, that is, promoting common prosperity requires the joint efforts of the Party, the government, society, enterprises and individuals to participate in development and construction, and requires multi-Party linkage and joint construction, clarifying their respective responsibilities and developing collusion.

3.1. Create An Environment for Development and Encourage Everyone's Participation

A better life for the people is not only a major responsibility borne by the Party and the government, but also an important reflection of serving the people. we must enhance and improve the Party's leadership. we must give full play to the Party's leading core role of commanding the overall situation and coordinating all parties, make the Party's strong leadership run through the whole process and all fields of common prosperity, and turn the Party's political and institutional advantages into a powerful driving force and strong guarantee for taking the road to common prosperity. In the improvement of market economy, social construction and other aspects of infrastructure, the government should actively intervene, provide policy and financial support; We should implement Xi Jinping Economic Thought, guide practice with correct theory, improve the socialist market economic system, and efficiently integrate the forces of "effective government", "efficient market" and capital to fully unleash the creativity of social wealth. Common prosperity does not go hand in hand; it is a process that gradually deepens and disperses. As social members, enterprises should actively guide them to play a leading and exemplary role, achieve hard-working and law-abiding prosperity, help each other, actively lead the fashion, and constantly stimulate the creative vitality of the whole society with practice and innovation; The third distribution should be guided by publicity and other measures, encourage the first rich groups to return to the society, encourage social forces to voluntarily invest in philanthropy and stimulate the vitality of philanthropy; The road of Co-Construction is not plain sailing, and twists and turns are inevitable. We should improve predictability, improve the system and mechanism for resolving risks, strengthen the risk monitoring and prevention and control system, maintain social and economic stability, improve the sense of security of social members in Production Co-Construction and enhance the confidence of Co-Construction. We will improve policies and measures to empower individuals, create environmental conditions for social members to work together, stimulate the people's subjective vitality, help multi-Party linkage, promote the formation of a situation of "everyone's participation", and promote development, win-win results and common prosperity for all.

3.2. Improve Institutional Arrangements to Ensure That "Everyone Does His Best"

In the context of economic and social development, public participation has become the center of modern social governance. At present, it is necessary to promote the broad masses of the people to actively shoulder social responsibilities, promote the construction of relevant systems and systems, and help the people jointly build and seek development; Constantly optimize the top-level design, improve social policies and measures, actively broaden the channels of "Co-Construction", provide a higher quality environment for creating social wealth, ensure the people's fair participation in Co-Construction, constantly strengthen the people's sense of ownership of Co-Construction of a better home, actively participate in the construction cause and fully stimulate social vitality; According to the respective characteristics of social members and different groups, formulate different institutional arrangements and policy measures to provide information platform and financial support for people to create wealth, continuously improve their ability to create social wealth and realize the continuous increase of social wealth; As builders of the new era, the working people should be guided to actively carry forward the spirit of model workers, the spirit of labor and the spirit of craftsmen, shoulder the mission and responsibility as masters, actively participate in socialist construction, be diligent in creation and struggle for common prosperity.

4. ENSURE THE RATIONAL DISTRIBUTION OF "CAKE" AND CONSOLIDATE THE SHARING FOUNDATION

The way of governing the country begins with enriching the people. Form a pattern of "everyone's enjoyment" and promote a new journey of common prosperity. Employment, public security, ecology, medical treatment and other issues closely related to the interests of the masses are not only related to social harmony and stability, but also crucial to the development of social economy. People's livelihood is the biggest politics. The improvement of people's "sense of gain" and "sense of happiness" and the "upgraded version" of people's livelihood are "bonus items" that can score high scores for sharing. People's livelihood is jointly promoted, regional resources are shared and complementary, politics preserves civil construction, the economic belt enriches the whole people, culture enriches the hearts of the people, medical care preserves people's livelihood, and the rule of law protects people's security. Improve the level of sharing and strive for common prosperity. The purpose of Co-Construction is to share, "promote social equity and justice, and make development achievements more and more equitable to benefit all people." if it cannot be shared, Co-Construction will lose momentum and the "road" to common prosperity will be blocked. On this new journey, it is of vital importance to embark on the road to prosperity through joint contribution and shared benefits, and to form a pattern of equitable distribution that ensures everyone's enjoyment.

To a certain extent, the process of building a harmonious society, strengthening social governance and realizing a well-off society is the process of ensuring "everyone's enjoyment". We should implement the policies that benefit the people, ensure that actions and measures are effective, solve the urgent and difficult problems of the people, make the people feel fairness and justice, and help achieve common prosperity with more policies that benefit the people; According to the current situation and development trend of the times, we should accurately implement policies, establish a scientific, reasonable and effective policy system, strive to reform the income distribution system, optimize the distribution mechanism, constantly improve the primary distribution system and redistribution adjustment means such as taxation, correctly handle the relationship between efficiency and fairness, and make the social structure develop into an olive structure. We will strive to improve the level of social and public services, strengthen social governance, improve the social security system, adhere to the comprehensive integration of urban and rural areas and regional cooperation, improve the people's livelihood service system of Co-governance and sharing, the social security system covered by the whole people and the public service supply system, do a good job in social security and other people's livelihood work, continue to improve people's well-being, promote the equalization of basic public services, and ensure that they are shared and fully shared by the whole people, Enhance the driving force of development; In a communist society, people's free and all-round development not only has a great wealth of material wealth, but also includes a great improvement in spiritual level. Common prosperity is the double improvement and high-quality development of material civilization and spiritual civilization. Therefore, while striving to create wealth and achieve material prosperity, we should also enrich the people's spirit through effective measures. Make material wealth and spiritual wealth form a "positive cycle" to ensure that the picture of common prosperity is real and tangible, so that the road of common prosperity is wider and wider.

5. COMMON PROSPERITY DEPENDS ON THE CONCERTED EFFORTS OF EVERYONE

"Nothing is difficult in a diligent world". It is a long journey. Only through diligence and wisdom can we create wealth. Only through struggle can we go wider and brighter on the road of common prosperity. The new era is the era of strivers, and all great achievements are the result of continuous struggle. Looking back on the glorious years of the Centennial great Party, our Party has gathered the strength of common struggle to the greatest extent, United and led the people to achieve great victories one after another and great achievements one after another. Practice has fully proved that only through great practice and hard struggle can we achieve success. Grasp the brush of Co-Construction and sharing, and help depict the picture of common prosperity and innovation. "Common prosperity is the essential requirement of socialism and an important feature of Chinese style modernization". The road to common prosperity is the road to prosperity for all, the road to Co-Construction and sharing, the road to common labor and common struggle for all, and the road to make people's money, spiritual prosperity and a good life. Everyone knows that there will be no pie in the sky. No one can succeed casually. Without struggle, happiness will not come for nothing, Dreams will not be realized casually. Solving problems and realizing ideals can only rely on honest labor. The realization of common prosperity is not limited to narrowing the gap between the rich and the poor. It is also necessary to stimulate the creative vitality of all walks of life, encourage honest labor, let the people realize their self-worth through diligence and wisdom, let the struggle achieve workers, create more social wealth, and realize the prosperity of the country and the people.

Of course, the process of common prosperity is gradual, and the road of common prosperity is very complex. Common prosperity is not to kill the rich and help the poor, nor can it be achieved overnight. The new journey has a long way to go, and only the accumulation of quantity can cause qualitative change. The road ahead will not be plain sailing, and the road to success will not be achieved overnight. We should fully estimate the winding nature of the road to common prosperity, the difficulty of completing tasks in the face of the complexity of the environment, and the long-term nature of realizing our goals. We should not only ensure to move forward bravely, but also pay attention to long-term achievements, have perseverance and perseverance, and adhere to common struggle. At the same time, it is unrealistic to achieve simultaneous prosperity. We should follow the law of social and economic development, adjust measures to local conditions, analyze specific problems, step by step, improve the assistance mechanism of getting rich first and then getting rich later, strengthen industrial linkage and regional cooperation, promote the process of "getting rich first and then getting rich later", gather the efforts of the whole people, and constantly consolidate the solid foundation of common prosperity.

6. CONCLUSION

Thousands of sails race and hundreds of boats compete for the current. Now we are heading for a broader Starry Sea and a more steady pace of common prosperity. We should work together through Co-Construction, stimulate vitality through sharing, grasp the relationship between the two, form a virtuous circle, realize extensive sharing in the Co-Construction of the whole people, and advocate the Co-Construction of the whole people in the sharing, so as to better embark on the new journey of common prosperity on the basis of Co-Construction and sharing and strengthening the foundation. "By 2035, people will lead a better life, and more notable and substantial progress will be achieved in promoting well-rounded human development and achieving common prosperity for everyone. From a beautiful vision to a more clear and bright grand picture, on the new journey, I believe that the song of common prosperity is singing high in the movement of joint construction and sharing, that the road of common prosperity is broader and broader on the basis of joint construction and sharing, and that under the leadership of the great, glorious and correct Communist Party of China, the great, glorious and heroic Chinese people will continue to forge ahead in unity, tell better Chinese stories with joint struggle and create more Chinese miracles!

REFERENCES

- [1] Information on:https://news.gmw.cn/2021-09/16/content_35167458.htm
- [2] Dong Tieying:How to implement the ten-year blueprint for common prosperity? , Chinese youth,Vol.19 (2021) No.4
- [3] Zhong Shi : Striving to win the all-round well-off society and realize the Chinese dream - study and implement the spirit of General Secretary Xi Jinping's important speech on "7.26", Economy,Vol. 16 (2017) No.3, p.10-11.
- [4] The comment Department of this newspaper Common prosperity depends on common struggle ,People's daily, Vol. 19 (2021) No.4 .
- [5] Yu Xiuxia, Huang Xiujuan: Promoting the integration of three industries in forestry and promoting common prosperity in high-quality development, Development research, Vol. 38 (2021) No.6.