Information for Authors

1. JMBE is the official journal of the Biomedical Engineering Society of the R.O.C., which publishes articles about medical instruments, computer application in medical science, biomechanics, biomaterials, biomedical engineering application, physiological emulation and other related topics. You are welcome to contribute your article on the above mentioned subjects that is not published in other publication and not sent to other publishers.
2. The length of a published paper should not exceed six pages, and communication notes should not exceed four pages. Each page shall contain about 1,700 words; charts/diagrams/graphs are included in the total pages. Articles contributed within the stipulated range are free.
