

Journal of Cancer Molecules

A peer-reviewed journal published bimonthly by MedUnion Press

www.mupnet.com

[AIM and SCOPE]: Journal of Cancer Molecules publishes peer-reviewed reviews and research articles focusing on advanced cancer research at molecular levels. Research areas covered in the Journal include: cancer genomics and proteomics, tumor markers and clinical molecular correlates, molecular carcinogenesis, structures of cancer-related molecules, development of therapeutic molecules, and molecular pharmacology. Specially, the Journal encourages the reports of clinical therapies against molecular targets.

Journal of Cancer Molecules was launched in October 2005. It has been now covered in Chemical Abstracts and CEPS databases, and each paper published in the Journal can be searched via Yahoo, Google, etc., searching engines.
